Pew Backs

Imperial offers a variety of comfortable options for pew backs and seats. Upholstered pew backs can have either 2” thick or 2 1/4” thick foam with lumbar cushion. Option on either is available to have matching fabric or finished wood on the backside of the back. Front side of the back may also have defined back panels. (page 13)

Pew Seats

Imperial offers a full line-up of the most comfortable seats in the industry. Foam seats are available with 3”, 4”, and 5” of foam. Imperial also manufactures the most dependable and luxurious spring seat available.

Lumbar Support

Studies on seating define comfort as the absence of discomfort. The primary determining factor in back comfort is the contour of the spine. The spine is a flexibly segmented column of bone divided into 25 parts. The most important of these are the five segments in the lower portion of the back called the lumbar area. These segments provide nearly all back movement. When seated, the lumbar area is placed in an unnatural curvature and can become uncomfortable. Imperial has developed a lumbar cushion to conform to and support the normal body curvature in this area. It properly positions the upper body and lumbar support to significantly add to its comfort.

Angle Back to Seat

The pew back supports only 4% of the occupant’s weight and acts primarily as a stabilizer. To provide proper stability, the seat to back angle should be in a range from 95 to 105 degrees. The Imperial pew has an angle of 100 degrees. This proper angle coupled with the support from the lumbar cushion in the back as well as the scientifically designed contoured cushioned seat eliminates pressure in the critical comfort zones to deliver seating comfort never experienced in a church pew before. Call us and see for yourself. You will be glad you did!

Cantilever ends offer a modern look as well as increase access into and out of the pew. Still, they maintain the overall appearance of a more traditional pew end.

Imperial miters are engineered for maximum strength and durability. This is accomplished with the use of a solid oak miter divider in the pew back. The supports on each side are anchored to the floor to ensure strength, rigidity, and provide a lifetime of trouble-free service.

Imperial divisions are built to accomplish the same thing for straight pews that our miters do for angled pews. At a division, the seats are screwed directly together, and the backs have a solid oak divider to securely join them together.

Pew Fronts

Our pew fronts exemplify the high quality that we take pride in. Choose the pew front to complement your Imperial pews. Standard height is 32” from the floor.
